LOCAL AND PERSONAL

The new home of the K. of P. in the Gabagig block, is ready for its roofing.

Mrs. Della Hagood heads the list of Tropico's women to register as a voter.

Residences for rent in Tropico are in frequent demand, and exceedingly scarce.

L. G. Willhite has removed from his home in West Glendale, to 206 South Fremont, Los Angeles.

Gov. Johnson, it seems, is making no new acquaintances in Los Angeles,—among the big newspaper proprietors.

The Thursday Afternoon Club will meet Thursday, October 19th, at the home of Mrs. J. A. Logan. Mrs. Logan, Mrs. Webster and Mrs. Dr. Russell, hostesses for the day.

Architect Roy Bancroft is to have supervision of the Sunday school annex to the Presbyterian church. While his plan is for an exceedingly attractive and symmetrical structure, it is not for an expensive one.

Miss Hazel Everts, an employee of the Pacific Telegraph and Telephone Company of Glendale, who was seriously burned, while on duty one night recently, has sufficiently recovered to leave the sanatorium, though not to return to duty as yet.

Robert Taylor, the veteran temperance worker of Tropico, left on Sunday last by steamship, for Vallejo, where he is to serve as district delegate to the Grand Lodge of I. O. G. T. which met at that place on Tuesday last, for a four days' session.

Fire, due to the explosion of an oil stove, completely consumed the home of Frank Budway, 1565 West Seventh street, Glendale, at 3:30 Wednesday afternoon. The loss is estimated at $12,000, which was partially covered by insurance. The Glendale fire department arrived on the scene a few minutes after the explosion but was unable to check the flames.

At the meeting of the women of the G. A. R. Relief Corps of Tropico, last Friday afternoon, as the news confirming the adoption of the suffrage amendment came in, there was a season of rejoicing, heartily participated in by all. The feature of the occasion was the singing of an impromptu song to the tune of "Marching Through Georgia," composed by Mrs. Myra Shuey, entitled: "Marching to Victory."

As a means of raising money toward a building fund with which to provide themselves with additional room, the Sunday school children of the Tropico Presbyterian church have hit upon the plan of selling house numbers and turning into the fund the profit thereof. The city has been divided into districts and each district assigned to a band of young people who will call upon the residents and sell them their official numbers at a very reasonable figure. The plan is a good one and of course will be encouraged by everyone.

The next most important matter to be looked after in connection with the exercise of a voter's responsibility is that of obtaining a suitable polling place. This thing of "any old thing" for a place of holding an election is played out. An election that is good enough to be held at all is good enough for a good place to hold it in. A barn or any other old shack may be fit for the men, but something more respectable for women should be provided. A meeting of citizens for the consideration of the matter would not be out of place.

It is a mistake to suppose that the controversy with the Board of Supervisors over the regularity of its proceedings in ordering and holding Tropico's incorporation election has anything on earth to do with the question of Tropico's legal right to the powers, privileges and franchises of an incorporated city. That fight may go as it will, it cannot disturb the legal right of the city to exist as such—a right that has never been assailed in any legal proceeding.

Chas. Wilkinson has returned from Murietta very much improved in health—those rheumatic twinges almost entirely gone.

The event of the week was coming and going of President Taft.

Mr. Samuel Charles of Topeka, Kansas, is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Harvey, Jr.

Mrs. Charles Barker was the guest of Mrs. Charles Turck at the country club on Monday.

Mrs. L. W. T. Richards entertained a few friends on Tuesday afternoon at her home on Central avenue.

Mrs. M. M. Eshelman has been safely removed to the home of her daughter at Covina and is slowly improving.

Contractor Sinclair commenced work on the improvement of Central avenue last Tuesday, getting together material etc.

Rev. M. M. Eshelman has removed to 3301 Manitou avenue, Los Angeles, that he may be nearer the Bible school of which he is teacher.

Charley Moser of Acacia avenue, Tropico, is caught on the trial jury in Judge Paul J. McCormick's court in the case of the state vs Reynolds.

Mrs. J. Van Arm's mother arrived from Belgium, Sunday, over the Santa Fe, to make her home with her daughter in Tropico.

Mrs. E. R. Davis, mother of F. H. Davis, arrived over the Santa Fe last Sunday, and will spend the winter. She had a very pleasant trip and is much in love with the west.

W. H. Rehn of Warlicka, Oklahoma, is the house guest of Mrs. Mary Bolom, of Brand boulevard. Mr. Rehn has recently purchased two lots in the Richardson tract upon which he will erect a family residence.

The cost of water for sprinkling the streets of Tropico during the past season is $177.99. The cost of the sprinkling outfit, team and tank wagon, is $544.50, or $4.50 a day for 121 days.

A mistake occurred in the statement of receipts from the recorder's court, published in last week's Sentinel. Instead of $585.80, it should have been $775.80, which left $158.80 "to the good," from the city recorder, instead of $31.20, the other way.

The penalties for violations of city ordinances and the penal code of the state, collected by Recorder Shuey's court in the past six months amounts to the sum of $775.80, from 85 cases. The recorder's fee in these cases amounted to $255. The balance received from the court by the city was therefore $520.80. Of this balance, $362.00 was paid out for services of motor officers.

The mayor and Common Council of Black River Falls, Wisconsin, have addressed an appeal to the president, governors and mayors of cities of all the land, a copy of which has been received by the city authorities of Tropico, asking aid in money to the people of that grief stricken city, whose business section and a large portion of its residence district was wiped out by the flood of October 6, 1911.

Mrs. C. J. Smith, who died at Clara Barton hospital, Los Angeles, October 16, was the sister of Mr. W. G. Robinson, of Cerritos avenue, Tropico. She had been a visitor at her brother's family home a few days before her death, and having formed a favorable impression of the locality was preparing to make her future home in the vicinity. She leaves three sons living in Los Angeles. Her funeral is awaiting relatives from the east. Interment will be at Forest Lawn.

On Monday, October 15, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Mitchell of North Glendale, gave a picnic luncheon in honor of Mrs. E. W. Richardson of Palo Alto. The day was spent in the enjoyment of the exchange of happy thought in regard to woman's enlarged powers as a voter. The party was favored with beautiful solos from Mrs. Fannie Edna Hellyer and Mrs. West of Boston, Mass., a prima Donna. Fifteen ladies were made legal voters by Mrs. Sidney Dell, deputy county clerk. Many inspected the little book containing the "constitution of the United States and of the state of California and other documents," compiled by C. F. Curry, secretary of state, delightfully instructive of duties in the exercise of a voter's responsibility.

SAMPLE COPIES

of the Sentinel have been left at the homes of many Tropico residents for the purpose of interesting them in becoming subscribers. Please send us your names and join in patronizing your home paper. Call up Glendale 24-R.

The extension of the Elysian Heights trolley line branch from Sunset boulevard into the Washington Park section and thence on to Tropico is now again in order.

Rev. C. B. Hatch will have for the subject of his sermons on Sunday next, in the morning, "The Wonder of the World in Building." In the evening "The Value of a Man."

They have gotten rid of their grouch,—the most of those old time ants have, and are taking an honest and earnest interest in the advancement of the city that holds the dearest spot on earth,—the place called home.

We have none but the tenderest regard for those whose disappointments have made their lots miserable even though in a large measure imaginary. The Home Telephone company of this valley is about to merge with the Sunset. Negotiations to that end all were recently completed.

Monday night was a banner one in Pythian circles in Tropico. Their hall was crowded and H. G. Pettit, J. R. Riley, Harry Marple, Noble Ripley, J. A. Gregory, S. A. Robinson, C. E. Nicholson, F. E. Beyer, Paul Gilmore and James Rich were made full fledged knights.

The matter of city electric lighting is still pending. The probabilities are that the city will erect the polls and do the wiring on its own account, put in a transformer and buy electricity from some light and power development company direct. The municipal lighting plant of Glendale city is supplying forty and sixty candle power street lamps to Glendale for 80 cents per month and this cost includes all renewals, and also the installation of the lamps and system. In other words, Glendale gets its light at a much lower price than that offered by the private company now in possession of the field, and from which an offer has been received.

The motion of Judge Albert H. Stephens to dismiss the appeal from Judge Wilbur's order denying the injunction of Tropico's incorporation election, now pending in the supreme court, sitting in Los Angeles, will come up for final hearing on Monday, the 23rd. The grounds of the motion are that the questions involved are moot in their character, and whatever view the court might take of them, a decision of them at this time could or would effect no useful purpose, in as much as the election it was sought to restrain was held and the city incorporated and is now existing as a municipality of the sixth class, in the full exercise of all the undisputed rights, privileges and franchises of such city.

Through the kindness of Mr. John A. Logan we were afforded the opportunity of witnessing the Santa Monica whizz wagon races, or so much thereof as were "pulled off" on the afternoon of Saturday last at the westerly gate of the Soldiers' Home. Mr. Logan's party consisted of Pierre Gabagig, Joe McPetters, Emil Moniot and "us." We arrived shortly before the afternoon event, and managed to squeeze into a place of vantage for experiencing the promised thrills, and believe we fully realized a prosperous termination of our strenuous efforts. If all there was to it was a swift succession of streaks of red and yellow through clouds of dust and smoke along with big noises and a mighty throng of people. The daily papers had all the monotonous details, but a rapid repetition of thunder crashes followed by vivid streaks of lightning around that zig-zag curve past the gate at the Home was "all there was to it. We had seen enough of doings of that sort "back east" and soon made our way to Mr. Logan's auto car, where we remained until home coming time when we got into that tremendous procession of automobiles, reaching from the sea to the city and by the side of which the Taft parade looked like a pauper's funeral.

SPRAYING THE TREES

Everybody in the City Opposed to It

The Los Angeles News Recently Had a Long Article on the Foolishness and Waste of Tree-Spraying Following Article Is From the Times of Sunday, October 5.

There is to be war, war to the knife and knife to the hilt, between the city government and the county, and the belligerency is to be none the less grim because it is merely a war of authority. The city council has hoisted its standard and is about to lead its forces against the county horticultural commission.

Some hints have been received from time to time that the horticultural commission must keep its hands off the trees and shrubs in the city, but the commission has paid no attention to these intimations and finally capped the climax when it notified the city that it must trim or cut down certain pepper and castor trees within five days or the work would be done and charged to the city.

Councilman Whiffen called on the horticultural commission at that time but was told that the commission would have to do the work and do it at once—that there was a good many objections on the part of people who received such notices, but "the commission was used to it."

"This thing will have to be brought to a head," said Councilman Whiffen yesterday. He is chairman of the land and public building committee, to which the matter has been referred.

"If the county horticultural commission has authority to come into the city and do as it pleases, tell the city to cut down or spray trees, and practically oversee the park commission in such matters in the public parks, we want to know it and then we can take steps to have the trees cut down all over the city or otherwise attended to, rather than be forced to spend money for spraying and trimming when it is not at all required."

"The county officials have no right to come into this city in such matters, I believe. Imagine the county health officials for example, coming into Los Angeles and telling us what we must do with a case of some contagious disease. But these people have come into Los Angeles and have posted and served notices on property owners telling them that they must have their trees sprayed and all that sort of thing. The consequence is that already many of our splendid shade trees have been cut down rather than annoy the owners of the ground on which they stand."

"It seems a shame to sacrifice shade trees. They do no harm and they add to the appearance of the city. The scale on them is of no particular moment and injures no one, so far as we can see; if it does, the city is quite capable of grappling with the situation without any orders from the county officials. I shall bring the matter up at a meeting of my committee on Monday and take it before the council again. It must be settled at once, for residents of the city do no propose to be annoyed as they have been by the horticultural commission.—Los Angeles News.

A REAL DESERT

When people refer to stretches of Arizona as a desert they do not know what they are talking about. There is no part of Arizona that is a desert. After the rains it is a great flower garden, and all the year around it is a green expanse, with bunch grass and a variety of trees, including the mesquite and palo verde, and cactus, with brilliant flowers of many hues. There are some patches of the Colorado and Mojave basins that are desert, but for the real thing one must go to the Sahara, in northern Africa.

With a recent number of that excellent publication, the National Geographical Magazine, was given, as a supplement, a picture entitled "The Hour of Prayer in the Sahara Desert," showing an Arab with his camel looking over an immense waste of sand, in which billows of sand extend as far as the eye can reach, with not a blade of vegetation in sight.

This is a real desert, and as different from our southwestern expanses of green as the North Pole is different from the equator. Yet they say the Arab becomes homesick for desert as the Swiss does for his mountain meadows.—L. A. Times.

A negro pearl hunter the other day found a pearl weighing 47 grains in the waters of Lake Boiteneau, near Shreveport, La., said to be one of the largest gems of its kind in the United States. The finder sold it in Shreveport for $250, and the purchaser in turn received $1500 for the stone. The second owner was a merchant, but the third a professional buyer. This last values the gem at $10,000.

Kid gloves have nothing to do with kids. They are made of the skins of sheep.

GOOD ROADS BANQUET

The first meeting of the Foothill boulevard association, which took the form of a banquet at the Hotel Maryland was the occasion of imparting a new impetus to the good roads campaign now under way. Frank Wheeler of Claremont, who is a member of the committee of arrangements, stated that between forty and fifty boulevard enthusiasts were present.

The continuation of the foothill boulevard through Monrovia, Claremont, Uplands, and on to Redlands was discussed. Delegates attended from many Southern California cities, and several questions of great importance were brought up.

Recent heavy rains have caused water to flow over the falls of Minnehaha for the first time in two years.

Tests appear to show that the wind will carry disease-breeding bacteria 200 feet, and even 60 feet during rainfall.

The Chinese have prepared an international manual, in order to make a translation of foreign languages easy and rapid.

Experiments prove that the gums of trees, so highly prized by man, are produced by disease. Trees can even be inoculated and made to furnish the coveted gum.

Of each dollar received by the city of New York in taxes two cents go to public charity.

New Sunset Train on Southern Pacific Is Marvel of Luxury

Modern travel, already luxurious, is to be made even more so by the Southern Pacific, Sunset route. Plans for a new train to run twice weekly between New Orleans and Los Angeles and San Francisco call for a cut of thirty hours in the running time between the two points. The new schedule, with its attendant comforts, has been brought about by the heavy winter travel between the two points on the Sunset route, and to care for this new equipment is now being built in the Pullman shops at Chicago.

The trains will be all steel. The cars will be of latest design and will contain every comfort now in use on the fastest and best equipped trains, and many new conveniences in addition.

Built For High Speed

The trains will consist of only six cars, and thus the high speed that will be demanded to make the schedule may be maintained with comparative ease. Each train will carry only a dynamo and baggage car, a diner, three drawing-room sleepers and an observation smoking car. The sleeping and drawing-room cars will be finished in mahogany and other beautiful hardwoods and furnished in luxurious fashion. The sleeping cars will each contain ten sections, two compartments and a drawing-room. They are being built for an especial regard to the comfort of women, in that the accommodations for them will be most commodious. A ladies' maid, manicure and hairdresser will aid in caring for the needs of the women.

The men also will be well taken care of, there being a barber, shower bath, arrangements for pressing clothes and a stenographer aboard.

The berths are to be electric lighted both upper and lower, and electric fans will cool the air of the car.

The dust and dirt of transcontinental travel will be eliminated as much as possible by the installation of vacuum cleaners that will do away with the offensive brushing up of dirt in the cars. At all terminals the trains will be given telephone connections and travelers will be enabled to talk with friends in the city without leaving the cars.

Previous Records to Be Broken

Service on the "Sunset Limited" will begin Dec. 4 from New Orleans and the following day from San Francisco. The trains will leave New Orleans at 12:30 noon Mondays and Thursdays of each week and arrive in Los Angeles at 9:15 p.m. every Wednesday and Saturday and in San Francisco at 11 a.m. the following days.

On the Eastern trip trains will leave San Francisco at 6:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Saturdays, Los Angeles at 8:30 a.m. the following day and arrive in New Orleans at 7:20 p.m. every Friday and Tuesday. The running time between Los Angeles and New Orleans will thus be cut to fifty-six hours and fifty minutes and between San Francisco and New Orleans to seventy hours and fifty minutes, or less than three days for the trip that now takes more than four.

The luxuries afforded the traveler and the speed attained are such that an excess fare of $10 will be charged between the two terminals.

Connection with Steamships

The time of the two trains has been gauged so that direct and quick connection will be made at both ends of the route with ocean steamships. Travelers from San Francisco bound for the East and North may take this train and be whirled to the Louisiana metropolis and there transfer to fast trains or steamships of the Southern Pacific. No Western trip the man who is hurrying to catch one of the vessels of the Pacific Mail will have an additional day for business and still make his boat.

The service when inaugurated will be a unique departure in railroad history. The trains will be different from any other in the United States, the equipment of the latest and best and every care will be taken for the safety of passengers.

"It's the biggest thing ever attempted by any railroad," said a Southern Pacific official. "Of course there are extra fast trains, but none like these, and no railroad ever before made such a cut in the running time as we will make. And we will do it in a fashion that really will add to the safety of travel, as our trains will be especially safeguarded and watched from one end of the line to the other."

There were in Argentina at the close of 1910, approximately 15,875 miles of railways, as compared with 14,840 miles in 1909. It is estimated that the length of the Argentina railways will be 16,500 miles.

IF YOU SEE IT—

The California Outlook has received this classification of the chief publications of Los Angeles, sent in by an eastern newspaperman who frequently visits this city:

If you see it in the Examiner, it is about Hearst.

If you see it in the Times, it's smutty.

If you see it in the Express, it's continued on page 22.

If you see it in the Herald, it's wild eyed.

If you see it in the Tribune, it's censored.

If you see it in the Graphic, it's "as I predicted last week."

If you see it in the Outlook, it's too long.—Hollywood Citizen.

AMERICAN EXPORT OF MANUFACTURERS

What are the principal articles forming the large increase of exports of manufacturers, the largest ever recorded in the history of the export trade of the United States? The figures of the bureau of statistics, department of commerce and labor, show that manufactures ready for consumption increased $101,500,000 in the export trade of 1911, and manufacturers for further use in manufacturing increased $41,500,000 over the preceding year. This increase is larger in both classes than that of an earlier year, making the total exports of manufacturing ready for consumption $601,000,000 and manufactures for further use in manufacturing $309,000,000, or a total of $910,000,000 against a total of $767,000,000 in 1910 and $71,000,000 in 1909.

Machinery in the various form to which this term may properly be applied supplies a large share of this total of increasing exports of manufacturing than any other single great class of products of the factory. The group of articles which the bureau of statistics classes as "machinery" under the general head of iron and steel manufactures shows a growth of $89,000,000 in 1910 to $105,000,000 in 1911; but to this could properly be added automobiles and parts of which alone show a growth of $4,500,000; agricultural implements, a growth of nearly $8,000,000, and scientific instruments, including telephone and telegraph instruments, a growth of $2,250,000. To be sure, no single one of the numerous classes of articles designated under the general head of "manufactures" shows as large an increase as pig copper, classed as a manufacture for further use in manufacturing, which shows a gain of $15,000,000 or approximately 20 per cent. over the exports of the preceding year; while that class of lumber designated as "boards, deals and planks," shows an increase of about $7,000,000 or 20 per cent. over 1910. Glazed kid, another article for use in manufacturing, shows an increase of over $6,000,000, a gain of more than 50 per cent. over 1910; but this is probably more apparent than real, in view of the fact that considerable quantities of kid leather exported in former years went out of "leather," but is not, as a result of insistence by the bureau of statistics upon greater care in classification, being properly described by the exporters. Glazed kid, alone, shows a total exportation in 1911 of $17,000,000, as against $11,000,000 in 1910 and less than $4,000,000 in 1909.

Of the finished manufactures ready for consumption exported, automobiles and parts of show a growth from $11,000,000 in 1910 to $15,000,000 in 1911; cotton goods, from $33,330,000 to practically $41,000,000; builders' hardware and tools from $14,000,000 to $17,000,000; boots and shoes of leather, from $12,500,000 to $13,750,000; lubricating oils, from $20,750,000 to $22,000,000; naphthas from $6,333,000 to $9,500,000; photographic goods, composed largely of motion-picture films, from $4,750,000 to over $7,000,000; typewriters, from $8,250,000 to $9,750,000; sewing machines, from $7,500,000 to over $9,000,000; structural iron and steel, from less than $6,000,000 to $8,500,000; scientific instruments, from $10,000,000 to $12,500,000; cars and carriages, from $3,750,000 to $8,750,000; agricultural implements from $28,000,000 to practically $36,000,000; metal working machinery, from $6,000,000 to $9,500,000; wire, from $8,833,000 to over $10,000,000; locomotives, from $2,500,000 to practically $4,000,000; stationery engines, from $3,000,000 to $4,000,000; traction engines, from $2,333,000 to $3,500,000; books, maps, etc., from $7,000,000 to $8,750,000 while in numerous other articles of less value corresponding increases occur.

All parts of the world shared in the increased takings of American manufactures. In agricultural implements for example, the exports to Russia in 1910 to $7,500,000 in 1911; those of Canada, from $3,333,000 to $4,750,000; Argentina, from 6,250,000 to $7,500,000; Australia and New Zealand, from $1,000,000 to $1,750,000 and Africa, from a little over $1,000,000 to $1,500,000. Of copper, Europe is, of course, the chief consumer. To France the exports increased from $12,250 in 1910 to $16,500,000 in 1911; to Germany, from $18,750,000 to $24,000,000 and Netherlands, from $24,000,000 to $30,000,000; while to the United Kingdom the exports of this article fell from over $17,000,000 to less than $14,000,000.

THE PERIL IN A MONEY TRUST

By Woodrow Wilson

The plain fact is that the control of credit is dangerously concentrated in this country. The money resources of the country are not at the command of those who do not submit to the direction and domination of small groups of capitalists, who wish to keep the economic development of the country under their own eye and guidance. The great monopoly in this country is the money monopoly. So long as that exists our old variety and freedom and individual energy of development are out of the question. The industrial nation is controlled by its system of credit. Our system of credit is concentrated. The growth of the nation, therefore, and all our activities are in the hands of a few men who, even if their action be honest and intended for the public interest, are necessarily concentrated upon the great undertakings in which their own money is involved and who necessarily, by every reason of their limitations, chill and check and destroy genuine economic freedom. This is the greatest question of all and to this statesmen must address themselves with all earnest determination to serve the long future and the true liberties of men.

ONE'S MENTAL FOCUS

A little child in one of the free kindergartens of Chicago brought her teacher a lurid picture from the Police Gazette. It was a blood and thunder scene—night in a miserable city quarter, a half naked woman dead on the pavement, killed evidently by a brutal ruffian who is in the act of firing upon a group of frenzied men and women. It was no Froebel lesson in chivalry, love and tenderness. The teacher dismayed at the influence of such a picture on the child's mind and disheartened with her efforts to teach the good and beautiful, was about to destroy the sheet, when excited child urged her to look at it. "See the pretty Lady Moon!" she cried, delightedly, pointing to a tiny crescent in one corner of the page of horrors. One of her songs was of the "Lady Moon" and their teacher had taught them to see and admire the moon and so the child saw only the "Lady Moon;" the rest of the awful scene was lost on her.

Maude Ballington Booth emphasizes this same psychological law of the influence of mental focus upon the individual life in one of her lectures on her work among prison convicts. Speaking of their different reactions toward society and law, she says:

"Two men looked out from prison bars.

"One saw the mud, and the other saw the stars."

Giving the right direction to one's attention is quite as important as paying heed to diet and bodily cleanliness. What we see—and what we are—from early childhood up through all the years of one's life largely depends upon our habitual mental focus—whether we see the sky, moon and stars or the mud.—La Follette's

UNCLE SAM'S SILLY PREJUDICE

The highest paid woman in the government service draws $3,000 a year.

Margaret Kelly, "examiner" of the mint is the woman.

Though "examiner" by title, Miss Kelly manages the mint in the absence of the man who holds the title and draws the official salary of that office. If Margaret Kelly were a man she might be paid what she earns. Miss Kelly does work for which the government pays $5,000 a year. For months at a time, in the absence of George E. Roberts, she has done Roberts' work, but because she is a woman she is not director of the mint; she is "examiner" and she draws less salary by $2,000 than she earns.

This is the only moral we can see in this widely published story of the "promotion" of Miss Kelly. It is not unusual for women in commercial life to earn and get salaries of $10,000 and even more, a year. That the highest paid woman in the service of Uncle Sam should receive a paltry $3,000 annually, shows not only that the government's civil employees are as a class underpaid, but that the national government in its capacity as employer is laboring under hampering prejudices against womanhood, which are illogical, absurd and out of date.—Wisconsin State Journal.

PLAYWRIGHT BRINGS FAMOUS ARAB HORSE

By Harry Carr

As the bird of Paradise seems to have settled down for a long run—perhaps it would be better to say a long fly—at the Belasco theater, Richard Watson Tully, the author, had to send for his stable of Arab horses.

Positively couldn't be separated from them another minute.

So they had to load some 30,000 worth of the Bedouin steeds, such as you read about in books, into cars and ship them to Baldwin's ranch.

And there they are in the old racing stables of Santa Anita park.

It is not improbably that they will remain in Southern California where the climate is much more like that of their native Arabia than Los Gatos, where Tullys have their stock farm. The Hullys think of moving.

This stable of pure Arabs is with doubt the most celebrated collection of horses in America.

John Blackwood and I went to see the effecting family reunion when they arrived at the ranch yesterday.

We went out marveling that two literary stars like Tully and his wife, "Eleanor Gates," could come down to earth and have such a fever over horses. But now we've got it ourselves.

Nothing for me and John but a couple of Arabs. The one I selected is valued at a paltry $9000, while John's whimsical fancy settled upon a blonde Bedouin charger whose value in rough figures about equals the national debt.

When our feet came crunching up the gravel path, a dozen sensitive brown heads came popping out of the stable doors. Arab horses are full of curiosity.

Nejdran, the Aristocrat.

Out of the door of the first stall thrust the most beautiful head I ever saw on a horse. . . . sensitive quick, sharp-pointed ears and glowing brown eyes that looked straight forward, like the eyes of a dog, a small dainty muzzle.

This was Nejdran, a desert aristocrat. He was "bought" by Maj. Gaisford of the Suffolk Highlanders from a Bedouin sheik.

As a rule the Arabs won't sell their horses. They are held almost sacred. They remain in the same families for almost countless generations.

Mrs. Tully says that their pedigrees go back 2000 or 3000 years before Christ. When a horse is captured and his owner killed in battle, it is an invariable custom for the widow of the slain warrior to send to his captor the may be kept pure.

LIFE OF STORY BOB

Senator La Follette writes the first chapter of his autobiography in the October number of the American Magazine. His story is to run for nearly a year and will include frank characterizations of all the important men of our time, including Tom Reed, Carlisle, Blaine, Garfield, Allison, Spooner, Cleveland, Bryan, Roosevelt, Taft and others.

The senator has had a world of political adventures and his account of them starts entertainingly. You see him in his first chapter as a farmer's boy just out of the University of Wisconsin, poor in debt, but with tremendous aspirations booming in his brain, and such "hustle" as is rarely seen. He conceived an ambition to become prosecuting attorney and with an old horse, started out literally to see every voter in the country, thus aroused the anger of the political boss, who thought that any candidate for an office should see him first. This resulted in a terrible fight but young "Bob" LaFollette won. Now came four years of exciting work as prosecutor—and then a new ambition—a desire to go to Congress and again serve his people. Another fight with the everlasting boss, and LaFollette at twenty-nine years of age, found himself in Washington, the youngest member of Congress—a man five years out of college, who never had been east of Chicago.

It is all told simply and personally, with a fund incident and detail. LaFollette himself surely cannot realize the attractiveness of his narrative to the reader. He cannot possibly realize how the reader will smile with pure delight at the tremendous enthusiasm ism and determination of the boy who was to become "the most conspicuous senator of his time," as Collier's Weekly recently called him.

Associate Justice John Marshall Harlan, of the supreme court of the United States, is no longer to be numbered among the living. He is gone from earth and the highest place in the service of the cause of human rights held by any man in either department of the government, is vacant. The president may appoint his successor, but his place will remain vacant forever. His great soul was troubled by the antagonism of his colleagues on the bench to the rights and interests of the common people and on the side of the money power of the land that manifested itself in their reading into a law of congress an unwarranted and perverted meaning in thinly disguised subservience to its malevolent behests, and who will say that his untimely death, he was only 77, is not due in some measure to the hurt of an aggrieved heart by reason thereof. The "old guard" of republicans in the public service is passing. But that of itself would be unlamentable were their places being filled with men trained in their school of loyalty to the principles of popular government.

THE LOS ANGELES CAMPAIGN

The present campaign for city officials is growing hotter every day. Alexnader, Harriman and Mushet are conceded to be the strongest candidates for the mayor's chair, with Miles Gregory and others as secondary considerations. After the primary election, October 31st, there will be but two in the race, or if the vote is large enough the primaries will settle it all. The Socialists and labor unions are standing solid for Job Harriman, onetime nominee for Vice-President on the Socialist-Democratic ticket. They expect to elect their leader by so heavy a vote at the primary election that a final vote will be unnecessary. They are holding between fifteen and twenty-five meetings a week in various parts of the city, having practically a monopoly on all the public halls.

At a monster mass meeting in the Temple Auditorium last Friday evening, the candidate for mayor expressed his intentions and reviewed the prospects for his election. This was followed by Alexander Irvine who brought to his assistance a number of stereopticon interpretations of the situation, and Mayor Duncan, of Butte, Montana, and Mayor Wilson, of Berkeley, will be in the city to assist the Socialists in a "whirl wind" campaign next week. The campaign will end with a big parade Monday evening, October 30th. There will be a hundred and forty-eight different labor and socialist organizations represented in the parade, together with the Socialist-Labor candidates.

Altogether, things are fairly boiling, though for not altogether obvious reasons most of the city newspapers do not notice it.

The world needs women's influence in public affairs, and women need the influence of a larger world, a larger responsibility, than they have been allowed to feel. Only with men and women developing and progressing side by side can we expect an approximation of that splendid destiny which awaits the arousing of all citizens to the exercise of the privilege and responsibility of co-operation in a government for all the people by all the people. CHAS. W. BELL, Senator, 36th (Pasadena,) Senatorial District.

GETTING A JURY

The McNamara trial has entered upon its second week with apparently little or no progress. The attorneys for the accused are contending vigorously for an unbiased jury—against passing for cause any veniennian who has made up his mind as to the truth or falsity of any matter that may by any possibility be a fact material to the defense. They are probing in every direction for proof of unfairness and the discovery of opportunity for advantage. Their first move was in the nature of a test of the condition of Judge Bordwell's mind toward the prisoners at the bar as a representative members of labor unionism. But this move was barren of result. Their next move was in the nature of a vigorous objection to the passing of a talesman for cause who had made up his mind that the Times building was destroyed by dynamite, it being the contention of the defense that this is not the fact; or at least an allegation impossible or doubtful of positive proof. The difficulty in obtaining a jury, in the light of contentions of the defense, will be apparent. Weeks and months must elapse before the hearing of the testimony can begin.

IN MEMORIAM

One of the saddest events in the history of our community is the death of Mrs. Elvira L. Rittenhouse, the beloved wife of our townsman Mr. C. C. Rittenhouse, last Monday evening. Her life had been a very busy and useful one until she was taken down by the disease which resulted in her death.

She was born January 19, 1851, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morse of Iowa City, Iowa. She was educated in the public schools and in the Iowa university of Iowa City. She took special courses to fit her for teaching in the schools and also for many years, was an instructor in music. She was the support of her mother, who became a widow two months before her daughter was born. Mrs. Rittenhouse was one of the real heroines of whom little is known beyond the narrow circle wherein their service lies. There has been but one other death in Mrs. Rittenhouse's home—a little boy at the age of one year. The surviving members of the family are the husband, Mr. C. C. Rittenhouse, and Frank H. Rittenhouse, Salmon City, Ida., Ralph G. Rittenhouse, Toronto, Canada, Charles C. and Miss Pearl, residing at home.

The funeral service was held Tuesday at the Presbyterian church. The pulpit and platform were most beautifully adorned with flowers and sprays of foliage. The choir of the church sang several appropriate selections, and the presence of many representative citizens indicated profound respect entertained for the deceased and sincere sympathy for surviving members of the bereaved family.

The final resting place of the dear departed one is in beautiful Forest Lawn. The hoarse bearing away her mortal part was attended by the following pall bearers: E. S. Ayers, W. G. Black, O. E. Burch, John A. Logan, B. W. Richardson and Fred P. Richardson.

CARD OF THANKS

Editor Sentinel:

Will you kindly permit me to express, through your columns the thanks of myself and family to the many neighbors and friends who have shown us their sympathy during the illness of Mrs. Rittenhouse, and at the time of her death.

It has been reported that the Southern California Gas company are to install gas mains through Glassell Park, the work to commence during the present week. The credit of this improvement lies entirely with the local improvement association at this place as they have persistently hammered at the gas company for the past six months for this much needed service.

Mrs. T. L. Gillespie has the distinction of being the first resident to sign up for the new service.

HIGH SCHOOL ITEMS

Harold H. Story, Reporter

The game between the Freshmen and Seniors Wednesday evening, and the game between the Juniors and Seniors Friday evening, complete the inter-class boys' basketball series. Re-suits for the entire series will be announced next week. Considerable class spirit has been aroused by these interclass games, but we are afraid that it is at the expense of school spirit. However, we will come around in time.

At a meeting of the athletic association, Tuesday morning, officers for the ensuing year were nominated and the constitution of the organization was read. President Wells of the Association exhibited an inter-class championship basketball banner presented to the school by the firm of Cornwell and Kelly, Glendale hardware dealers. The banner was a beautiful one and elegantly finished. A vote of thanks was extended to the gentlemen mentioned, by the whole school.

A considerable number of the students attended the matinee given by Sousa's band, Tuesday afternoon in the Temple Auditorium.

We expect to give a review of the Junior issue of the "Stylus" before long.

BARACA NOTES

By Harold H. Story

Our troubles are vanishing and the sun shines again. We want every fellow to turn out to our business meeting in the Presbyterian church, Friday evening. We have a great number of things to consider and we must have the opinions of all the members. Please don't forget it. The business session will be followed by a big Baraca-Philathea social which will take the form of a Halloween party. The girls have arranged a fine program and a good time in general. Every member of both organizations should be present with their friends.

And don't miss our regular meetings in the church every Sunday morning at 9:45. They are the most important meetings of all.

ARE OUR JUSTICES AND

RECORDERS FUNCTUS OFFICIO?

Lawyer Adcock, of Los Angeles, is after the distinction of initiating the first case in this county for testing the effect of the adoption of Constitutional Amendment No. 26 on the existence of Justices' Courts. That the learned Adcock is serious in his contention that the amendment abolishes the inferior courts of the state of whatever name we very much doubt. The question was mooted more for getting votes in opposition to the adoption of the amendment than anything else, we suppose, and to have it set at rest by the bench in doubtless the real object of the proceeding. The construction given the provision by its author, Assemblyman L. D. Bohnett, and his colleague, Henry N. Beatty, is as follows:

"The laws of California, at present, provide for the office of justice of the peace, so that the adoption of this amendment will legislate no man out of office. Until the legislature changes the law, the present court will continue with the same powers and duties it now has. The adoption of this amendment simply gives to the legislature the power to make such changes in the law and to provide for a more efficient court."

The case was assigned to Judge Willis' court for hearing, where it is still held under advisement.
